

Students tend to see these components of graduate education as disconnected hurdles to jump instead of integrated, structured opportunities to learn.